ECC Strategic Partner Smarter Sorting will present The Hidden Costs in Your Regulated Supply Chain: From e-commerce to storage to waste, what hidden costs are affecting your bottom line?

Regulatory Classifications are important for understanding the regulatory burden placed upon a given product. However, classifications are just the core data needed for a handling decision to be made. In the retail supply chain, people are routinely required to interpret regulatory data, making handling decisions on the fly.

What's the true cost of shipping or storing a battery powered bike? What's the value of knowing a product is, or isn't, eligible to be returned to the vendor? What's the value of removing regulatory ambiguity in your e-commerce program?

With these questions as our guide, Smarter Sorting will explore how centralizing data creation with an eye towards operations can eliminate data redundancy and help you to find and fix hidden costs.
